WHERE

THE CITY,

THE COMMUNITY,

AND CREATION

COME TOGETHER.

Cities are not made of concrete and glass.
They are made of relationships:
Between a building and its street.
Between a developer and a neighborhood.
Between the people who design, and the people who live.

WOMA, a mixed-use residential project, redefines urban living in Wynwood Norte. Inspired by textiles, its vibrant façade shapes a landmark building where architecture, real estate, design and fashion speak a common language — a unique convergence that creates something beyond any single vision.

By combining global expertise with local execution, WOMA bridges international perspective and community roots. WOMA is conceived to foster creativity, daily interaction and genuine neighborhood connection.

This story begins with Bolivian fashion designer, entrepreneur and philanthropist Rosita Hurtado. Renowned for her ability to link creativity, identity and community. Rosita's deep connection to Miami and her passion for integrating design with urban life inspired WOMA's conception as a place where people, culture and architecture dialogue naturally.

Uribe Schwarzkopf —an Ecuadorian developer with over 50 years of design-driven experience and a legacy of iconic projects with the world´s most celebrated architects– transformed this vision into a proposal with a district identity.

MVRDV, the internationally acclaimed Dutch firm, leads the architectural design, while the Miami Based Kobi Karp Architecture and Interior Design team grounds the project in the local context.

WOMA Wynwood is developed solely by WOMA WYNWOOD LLC, a Florida limited liability company. WOMA Wynwood LLC was formed by the founders of Uribe Schwarzkopf.

ABOUT URIBE SCHWARZKOPF

Uribe Schwarzkopf is an Ecuadorian real estate company with more than 50 years of experience, recognized for its design-driven developments and contribution to urban transformation. From Quito to Guayaquil, the firm has redefined the skyline alongside the world's most celebrated architects, including Bjarke Ingels Group (BIG), Safdie Architects, Kengo Kuma & Associates, Ateliers Jean Nouvel, MAD Architects, MVRDV, Arquitectonica, YOO inspired by Starck, Wanders&YOO, Carlos Zapata Studio and Lorenz Krisai. In doing so, it proved that a city in the Andes could become a global architectural destination in its own right.

Why Miami. Why now.

For half a century, one conviction has guided every project: that great design belongs everywhere, and that a building can change the way a city sees itself. Having brought the world's finest architecture to Ecuador, the firm now carries that belief outward. Miami is not a departure from that story. It is its natural next chapter. Like Quito, Miami is a city in motion: creative, restless, shaped by generations of makers and migrants, and fluent in the same Latin-American spirit. And Wynwood is its most honest expression, a neighborhood built by artists, entrepreneurs and dreamers, where to create is to belong. The kind of place where Uribe Schwarzkopf's philosophy comes to life.

A MOSAIC OF IDENTITY

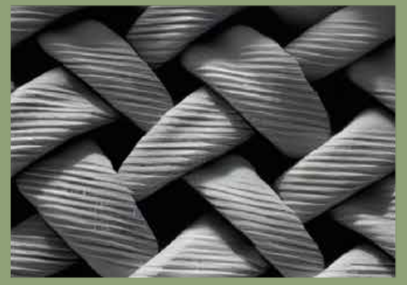

Rooted in the industrial history of this block, WOMA's design is a physical manifestation of the neighborhood's DNA — a building that could only exist on this corner. Like Wynwood itself, it is a patchwork of identities, creativity and community.

The façade translates the art of weaving into architecture, expressing Wynwood's deep connection to craft, fashion and making. This identity is not applied to the building, it's woven into it.

"I believe in design as a force capable of creating well-being and weaving community. WOMA is born from this conviction: a place where beauty, innovation and belonging shape a new way of living in the city."

LOCATION:

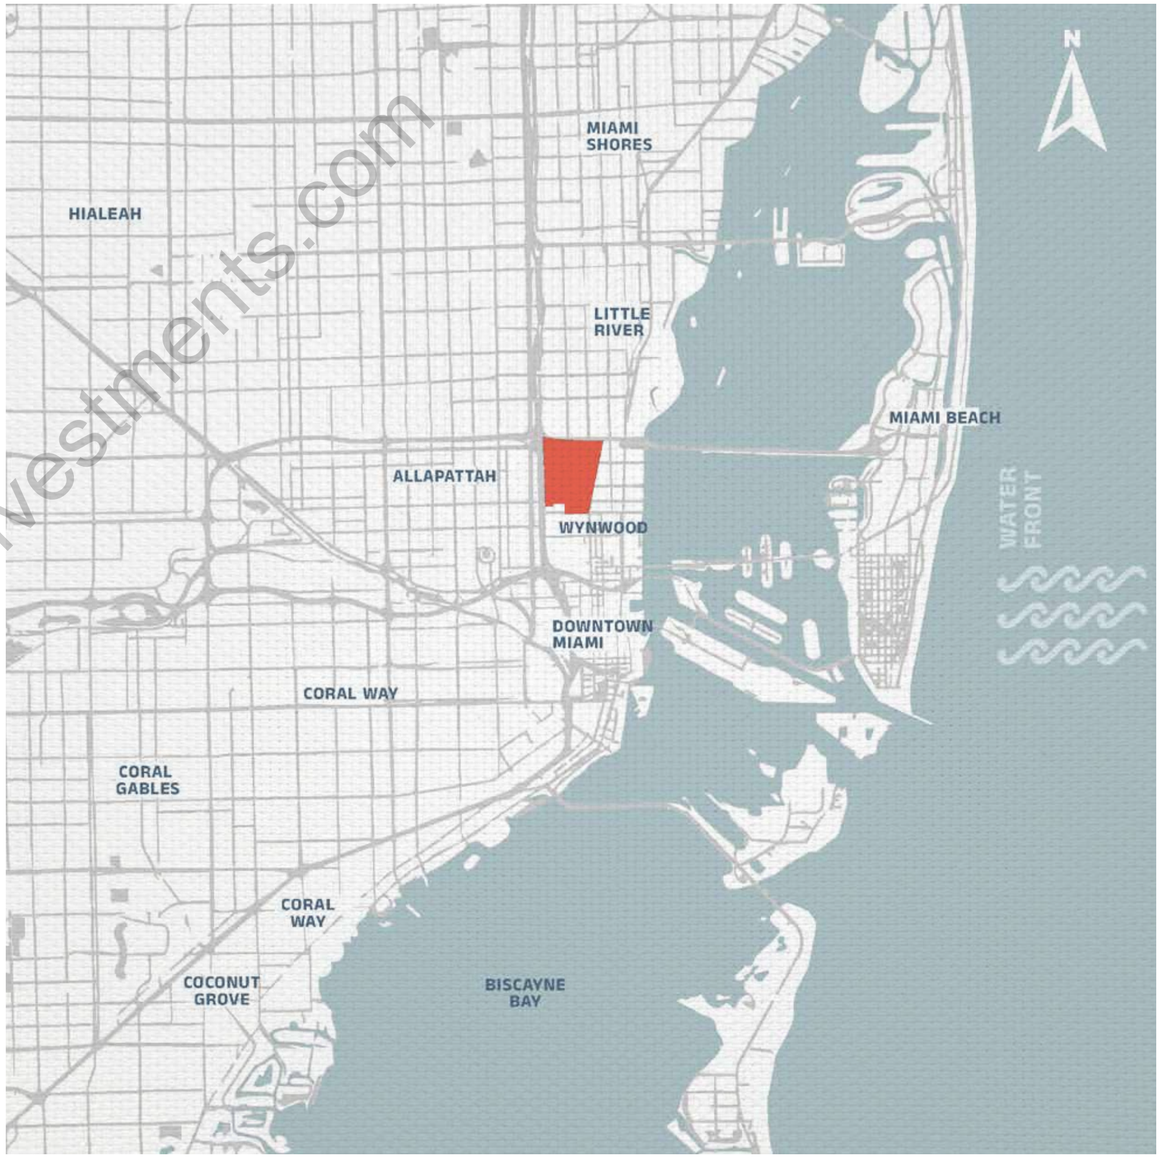

WOMA sits at NW 5th Avenue & NW 32nd Street, Wynwood Norte's most vital intersection, where the neighborhood's creative corridors converge.

Wynwood Norte is an evolving neighborhood, rooted in one of the world's most restless cities, Miami. Shaped by generations of makers, migrants, artists, and entrepreneurs, it holds the creative energy of its people. A place of genuine opportunity for those who think forward, agents of creativity and revitalization.

Steps away: the Fashion District, the graffiti walls that put Wynwood on the world map, Mana Wynwood - where the upcoming Carnegie Mellon University Miami campus will be located, the lush gathering space of Oasis Wynwood and the future Brightline station that will connect you to all of Miami and beyond.

WOMA's unique three-frontage corner block creates a natural threshold — a building as much a part of the street as the neighborhood itself.

WOMA brings an ecosystem to the heart of Wynwood, where creativity grows out of everyday encounters: between neighbors and visitors, culture and technology, creators and residents, artists and entrepreneurs. The result is lasting value for a diverse community and the neighborhood's future.

WOMA isn't just a building in the neighborhood. It's part of defining what living, making and belonging in Wynwood Norte will mean next.

"WOMA is a creative patchwork of Wynwood Norte's identity, drawing inspiration from textiles, art and color that characterize this area. It is neighborhood-oriented not just visually but also functionally, prioritizing human scale and pedestrian connectivity, while integrating abundant greenery, neighborhood retail, amenities and a diverse residential mix—setting a new standard for urban development in Wynwood Norte."

ABOUT THE PROJECT

WOMA is built on a simple idea: that the center of Miami should be open to the people who give it life. Homes range from efficient micro-studios to three-bedroom residences, so the artist, the entrepreneur, the young family and the first-time buyer can all belong to the same building.

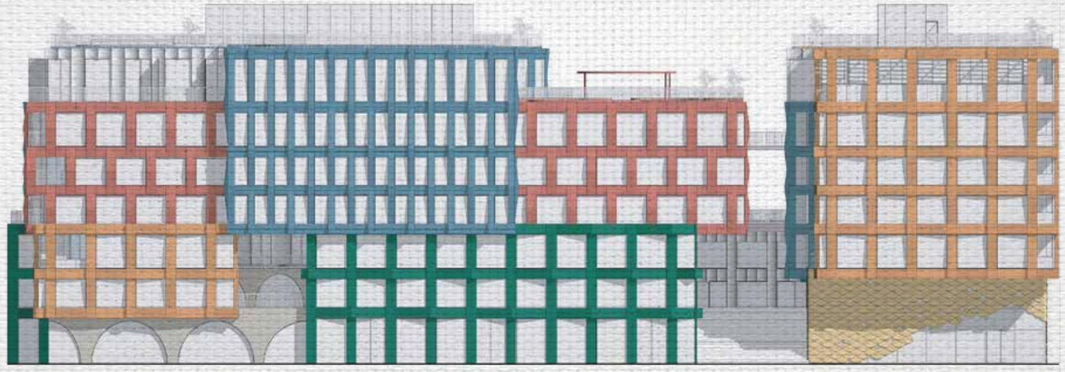

Among them sits a limited collection of duplex ateliers for creators — true live-work spaces joining a home to a studio and exhibition area, opening straight onto the mezzanine plaza.

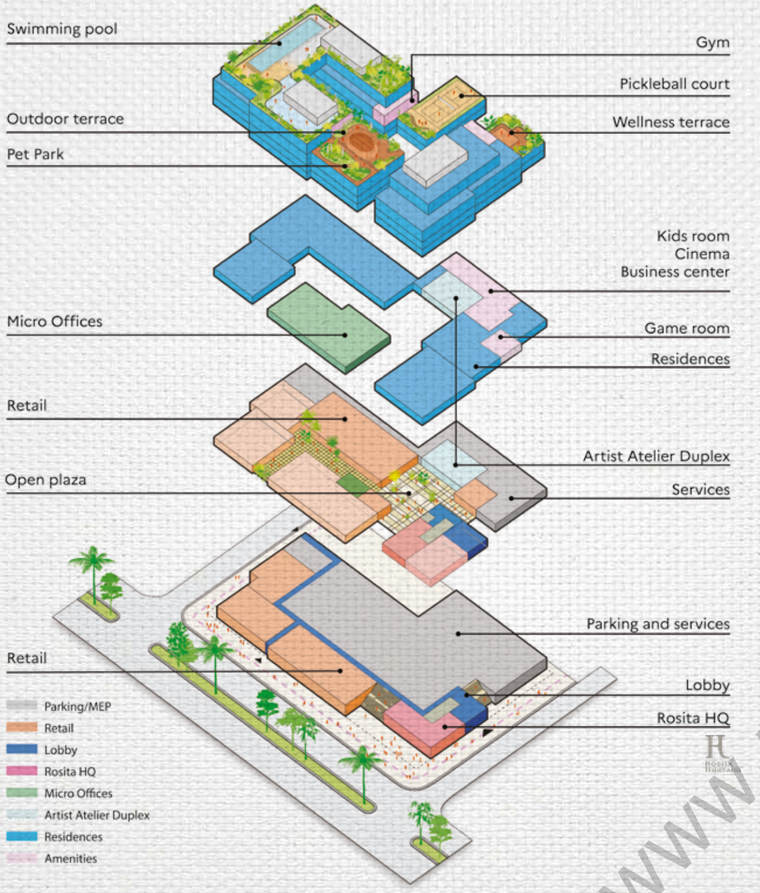

Every residence comes fully finished, with kitchens, baths and appliances ready from day one, and for those who'd rather work where they live, offices and flexible storage are available too.

WHAT'S INSIDE

WOMA is a condominium where residential living meets work-from-home, everyday retail and spaces designed for rest and connection.

At its wellness core: a terrace with sauna and steam room, a fitness studio and an outdoor pickleball court.

On the roof, a communal terrace opens to panoramic views, with a semi-Olympic pool set among garden lounges and landscaping.

For those who work from home, a contemporary business center with meeting rooms — and for downtime, a movie theater, a kids' play room, a game room and a rooftop pet park.

At the center of it all is the mezzanine plaza, framed by shops that make it the building's social and cultural heart. At street level, retail wraps three sides — along NW 32nd Street, NW 5th Avenue and NW 33rd Street — tying WOMA into the daily life of Wynwood Norte, where living, working and culture meet.

WOMA is at once:

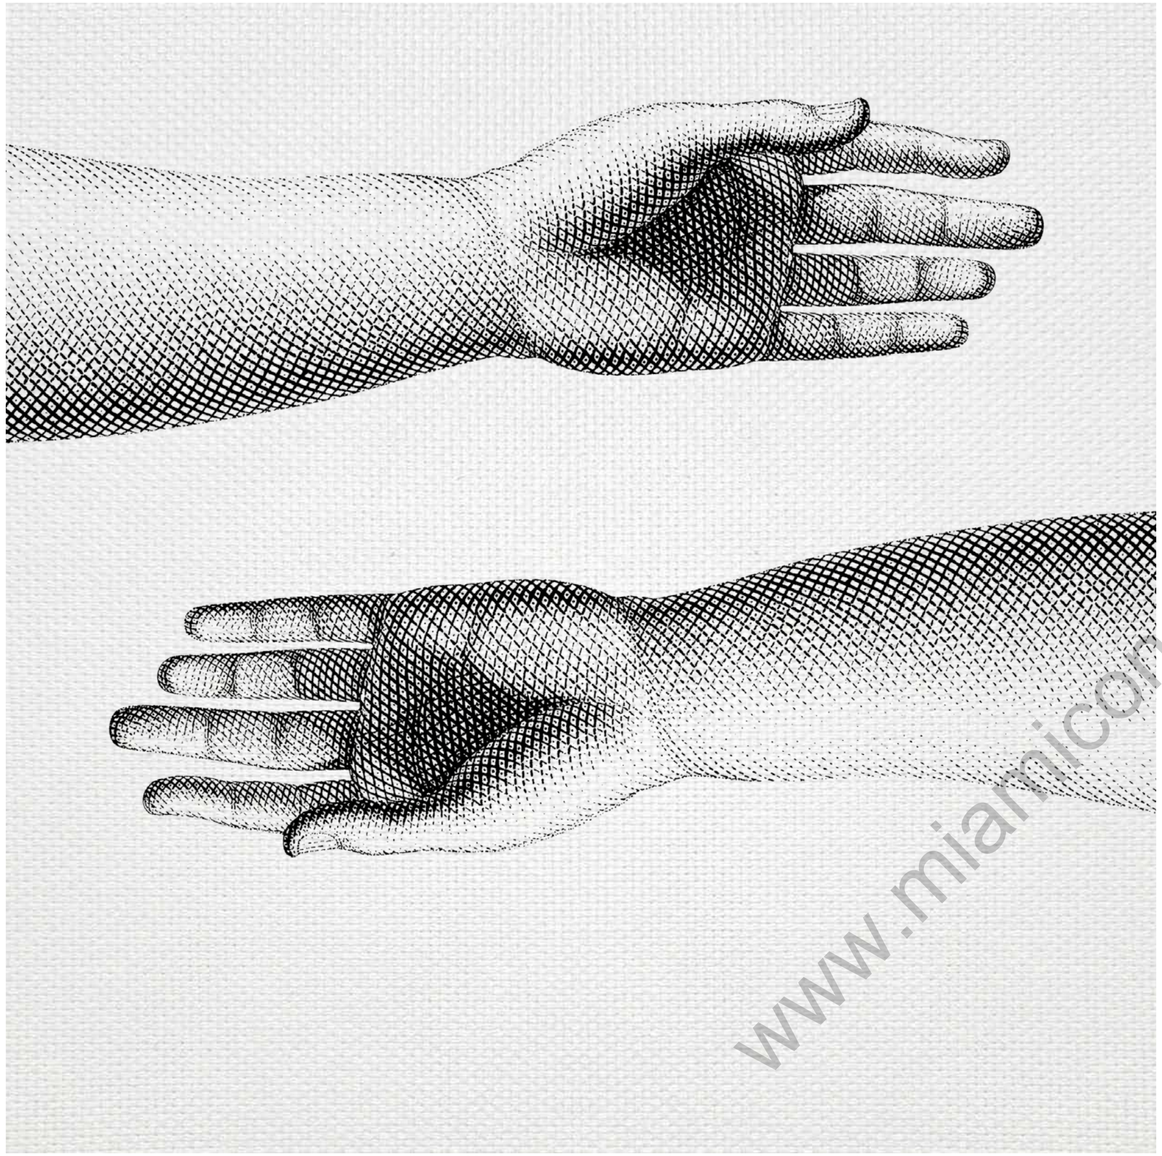

- A place to live and create.
- A catalyst of spontaneous encounters, by chance and by design.
- A source of everyday energy for the neighborhood.
- A meeting point for culture, work and home.

ART AT THE HEART

MANI, one of Fornasetti's most iconic décors, will come to life in a mosaic covering the main staircase at WOMA. The mosaics, produced by Bisazza from the original Fornasetti's archive drawing and design, will become an architectural and artistic landmark for Wynwood Norte, integrating design, art, and craftsmanship into a unique experience.

FORNASETTI

With its inspiring, visionary imagery, Fornasetti is the decorative art Atelier where everyday objects become collectible multiples of art.
